MiniPlay for the sandpit

MiniPlay's small Noa play environment is specially designed for sandpit-based activities. With its very low, non-slip floor, even the youngest tots and toddlers can join in the fun. There are sand chutes on the outside and a yellow box for transporting the sand. In addition to the chutes, the moving flowers, butterflies and bees also allow children to train their hand-eye coordination and fine motor skills.

Want to go shopping?

On the opposite side is the shop, the baker or the school – depending entirely on where your imagination takes you. The small handle controls the bell, while the 'goods-in' hatch is opened by firmly gripping the small yellow knob: Both features strengthen motor skills, and also encourage role-play, with all sorts of sand cakes, teddy bears and other toys being passed across the counter. Social interaction and play at its best. The children are kept busy interacting and negotiating, while acting out episodes from their daily lives.

The shop is always placed at a low height, enabling shopkeepers and shoppers to communicate easily with each other and swap places. The shop has a non-slip floor, and the counter is supported to accommodate even the biggest elephant without bending.
